About AI4ALL

AI4ALL is a national nonprofit working to build a generation of leaders who shape AI for human good. Through its programs, AI4ALL has helped students build technical skills in responsible AI, create real-world AI projects, and prepare to navigate the AI workforce.

AI4ALL alumni are college students and early career professionals from all walks of life who are building careers in AI. Some are searching for their first internship, some are landing their first job, and some are settling into their first role. What accelerates them now is access to professionals already working in the field who can help them navigate their next career step.
